

Broadley Rees Hogan Joins VDCC Team for Season 2016/2017

Broadley Rees Hogan and Valley District Cricket Club are delighted to announce a new partnership for the 2016/2017 season.

As part of this partnership, the support of Broadley Rees Hogan will assist the Valley District Cricket Club with a number of exciting initiatives currently being undertaken by the club. These include the continued promotion of women's and girls' cricket, extensive community infrastructure upgrades, and enhanced access to high quality coaching and facilities for our junior and senior cricket programs.

Director of Broadley Rees Hogan, Stuart Rees, said that the firm understands the importance of a balanced approach to life and is pleased to support the Valley District Cricket Club in its commitment to keeping youth busy in sport.

Valley District Cricket Club is one of the largest cricket clubs in Australia, with over 1250 players participating in season 2015/16, and is certainly doing its bit to provide the local community with facilities, coaches and activities. The club is one of the four oldest surviving Brisbane district clubs and will celebrate its 120th year in 2017, having been established on 16 August 1897.
